Staying current on your industry is a full-time job inside your full-time job.

Fragmented sources

Relevant news is scattered across CNBC, TechCrunch, trade blogs, and press releases — nobody reads just one feed.

No prioritization

A headline about a competitor's funding round and a puff piece look identical until a human reads and ranks them.

Doesn't scale

Covering five sectors well means five times the reading — most teams settle for blind spots instead.

2–3 HRS

lost every single day to manual news reading

10–15 HRS / WEEK

roughly a third of the work week spent scanning instead of acting

YOUR SOLUTION

Pick your sectors. AI reads the news for you. One clean report lands in your inbox.

“You go from opening a dozen news sites to opening one email.”

No dashboards to check. No feeds to scroll. It comes to you.

We use AI to read every article the way a sharp analyst would — in seconds, at unlimited scale.

WITHOUT SECTORBRIEF

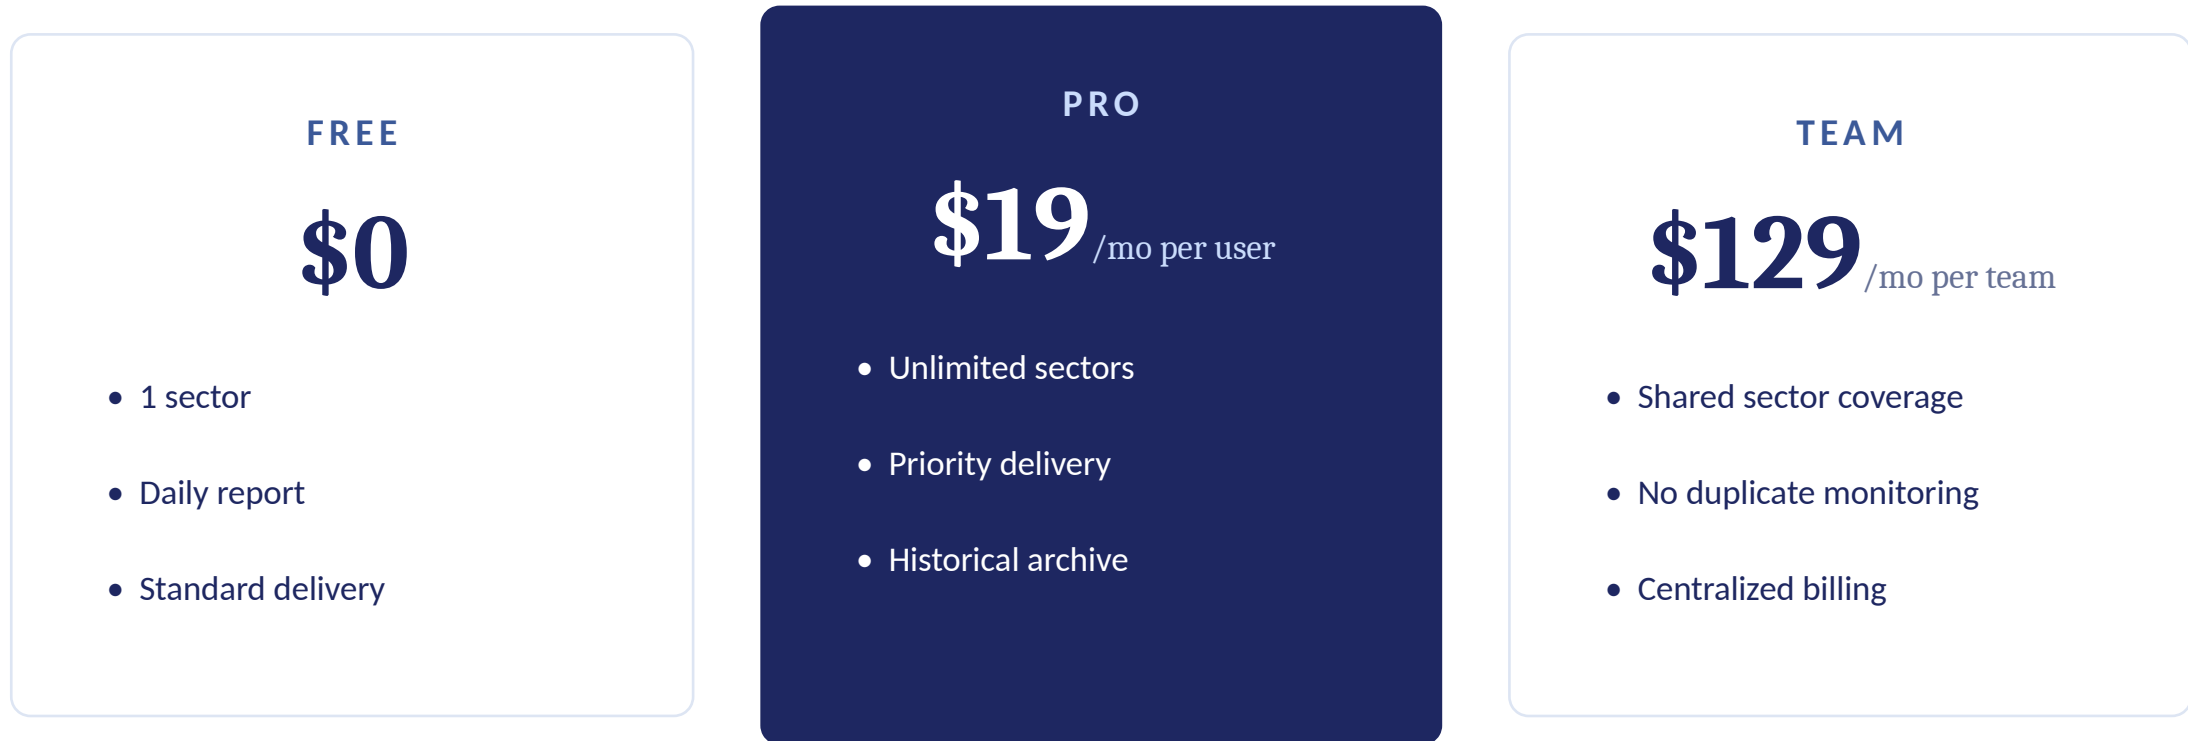

- ✗ One person reading every source, manually
- ✗ Judgment calls on what's urgent, made under time pressure
- ✗ Coverage caps out at 1–2 sectors per person
- ✗ Insights arrive whenever there's time to read

WITH SECTORBRIEF

- ✓ AI reads every article automatically
- ✓ Every item scored for sentiment & urgency, consistently
- ✓ Unlimited sectors — same 45 seconds either way
- ✓ One report, delivered on schedule, every time

Why this wasn't possible before: doing this manually never scales past one or two sectors per person. SectorBrief makes 10 sectors as easy as one.

Freemium subscription, built for individuals and priced up for teams.

500 teams on the Team tier = ~$594K ARR — and AI cost per report runs near-zero on current infrastructure.

First customers: analysts who already feel this pain — and already have budget.

Target first 10 customers: market research analysts & competitive intelligence teams at mid-size companies

Others force a trade-off. SectorBrief doesn't.
